RECEIVING AWARDS for volunteer work in the local Branch NAACP are Edward B. Davis and Mrs. Alzetta Clark and Mrs. Rufus Thomas at the right. In the center is Dr. Vasco Smith, Jr., first vice president of the local NAACP who presented the awards during a Freedom Mass meeting at Metropolitan Baptist church last Tuesday.

JAMES H. MEREDITH is receiving an award from Jesse H. Turner, president of the Memphis Branch NAACP, for "helping to further the cause of human freedom." Meredith is the first Negro student to be enrolled at the University of Mississippi. At the right is Atty. Derrick Bell of New York City, who received an award for Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, association counsel-director of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, who was unable to keep a speaking engagement here because of a court trial in Birmingham, Ala., last Tuesday. Atty. Bell gave the featured address at the mass meeting.

69 Piano Students To Try For Music Honors

Some 69 local piano students from the classes of six Memphis music teachers will audition for membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians at Owen college May 31-June 3.

The auditions are being sponsored by the National

The students striving for pledges, local, district, state, national and international honors within the mother organizations are pupils of Mrs. Leatrice Bell, Miss Mattie Bell, Mrs. Dorothy T. Brown, Mrs. Hattie Moseley, Mrs. M. Blanche Slaughter and Mrs. Hattie Swarengen.

MUST PLAY MASTERS

Honors will be conferred upon the students according to the number of standard classic, romantic and modern pieces chosen from the "masters" of piano literature each can creditably perform in the presence of an imported examiner from another state.

A native of Portugal, Lares began studying the piano at the age of three, and subsequently studied under some of the best pianists in Germany, France and Switzerland. He has won numerous awards.

Laires joined the faculty of the Oklahoma College for Women in 1961.

Pupils who participate will be certified, given a gold or bronze embossed pin and a year's membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians and Piano Hobbyists of the World.

Each year more than 60,000 piano pupils of the nation participate in the event at some 600 music centers in the U.S.

FERNANDO LAIRES

Guild of Piano Teachers, of which their teachers are members.

Here to judge the performances will be Fernando Lares, artist in residence and professor of piano, at the Oklahoma College for Women at Chickasha, Okla.

FOUR FELLOWSHIP RECIPIENTS — Four members of the faculty of Mitchell High school will study this summer at four universities on grants from the National Science Foundation. Seated from left are Cleveland S. Staples, who will study physics eight weeks at the University of Akron in Akron, Ohio, and Marion Tolliver, who will study mathematics for seven weeks at Case Institute in Cleveland. Edward K. Knight, standing left, will study biophysical chemistry at the University of Minnesota in St. Paul, for six weeks, while Kenneth A. Watkins will take eight weeks of chemistry at the University of Colorado in Colorado Springs. It will be the second fellowship grant for Knight, who studied radiation biology at the University of New Mexico in 1961. (Photo by Clarence E. Withers).

Identify Suicide As Retired Postal Worker

A man who jumped over the Tennessee - Arkansas bridge last Thursday has been identified as James M. Terrell, 62, whose address was 964 S. Wellington st.

The identification was made by H. A. Sinclair of 786 Carson, an employee of the U.S. Army Engineers at West Memphis, after the man's wife reported him missing on the following day.

Sinclair identified the victim from a photograph which was obtained from Mrs. Terrell.

According to Sinclair, he was driving across the bridge about 1:30 p.m., when he saw the man place one leg over the rail.

He said he put his car in reverse, backed up to where the man was still climbing over. "When I got about six feet from him," he said, "he let go. I watched him go down and disappear beneath the water."

Mrs. Terrell told police that her husband told her that he was going out to play cards when he left home on Thursday.

She added that he had been despondent since he retired from his job as a postal worker about five years ago.

The body has not been recovered.

Granny Falls Off Bike

DUENWEG, Mo. — (UPI) — Mrs. Maggie McGee, 69, decided to learn to ride her granddaughter's bicycle but fell off and broke her ankle.

"I guess I'll have to join a club and learn how to ride," she quipped to an ambulance driver.

Profs Ask Wallace To Avoid 'An Oxford'

Three university professors called upon Governor George Wallace of Alabama to avoid "another incident" by obeying the decision of the courts in the integration at the University of Alabama.

The three, officers of the Southeast Regional Conference of the American Association of University Professors are Dr. Peter Bannion, president; Russell H. Barrett, vice president, and Joseph Riggs, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Bannion is a professor of English at Memphis State university. Dr. Barrett is a political science professor at the University of Mississippi, and Riggs an associate professor of speech at Memphis State university.

In the wire to Governor Wallace, they said: "As the officers of the South-East Regional Conference of the American Association of University Professors, we should be derelict in our duty to the Association, as well as in a larger duty, if we failed to add our voices to the number of those trying to prevent another Oxford incident—this time at the University of Alabama."

"Uncompromising defiance of Federal law beyond the recourse provided for in our judicial system is the path of anarchy. Such defiance can excite no lasting sympathy and can foster no good result. It leads only to violence—perhaps as at Oxford to murder—and then to inevitable collapse."

"From such tragedy neither the university, the state, nor the country can emerge unscathed. We are all part of Alabama, and Alabama of us. For this reason we cannot remain indifferent or silent, but must do whatever can be done to encourage at Huntsville and Tuscaloosa an orderly, peaceful compliance with the decision of the courts."

Awards Presented By Heart Assoc.

The Memphis Heart Association, Inc.—presented awards to volunteer workers, newspapers, radio and television stations, fraternal, PTA's and other groups and individuals, during an annual dinner-meeting at Hotel Peabody last Wednesday night. Among newspapers receiving a "Certificate of Merit" was the Tri-State Defender.

Dr. Thomas N. Stern, while making his annual report, said that the local association raised $89,000, the second-best fund-raising drive.

Dr. Walter K. Hoffman, president-elect of Tennessee Heart association, told the audience that the greatest cause of death among children is congenital heart condition.

Dr. James W. Culbertson, president of the local association, said, "A good deal of the success of Memphis Heart association is due to the effective work of its staff." He added, "The future of the association rests with non-medical worker's cooperation with medical and technical workers."

Chairman of the 1963 Heart Fund drive was W. C. Manley, Jr. Presenting awards was Paul Flowers, a local newspaper columnist.

Girl 12, Drowns In Effort To Save Brother, 4

MARION, Ark.—A 12-year-old girl lost her life in a desperate effort to rescue her drowning brother, age four. Both of them were swallowed up by the water in a pond on Mound City Rd., about 4 p.m. last Sunday.

The dead girl is Jean Tribble. Her brother is Richy. They lived with their grandmother, Mrs. Emma Massey of Marion. Southern Funeral home of Memphis is in charge of the incomplete funeral service.

County Students Win Scholarships

Two scholarships from the William P. and Marie R. Lowenstein Foundation have been awarded to two students graduating from county high schools.

Receiving the grants which amount to $400 a year are Billie Jean McGuire of 7405 Osbornetown rd., Arlington, and Willie Alexander Nesby of 7455 Neshoba rd., Germantown.

Miss McGuire, a senior at Barret's Chapel High School, has been awarded the four-year scholarship, while Nesby will receive the grant for one year. Both students plan to attend Tennessee A&I State university.

Before receiving the scholarship established by Mrs. Marie R. Lowenstein, applicants had to appear before a panel of judges which this year included Eld. Blair T. Hunt, Dr. Charles Dinkins, president of Owen College, Thomas J. Willis, Universal Life Insurance company; Harold Whalum, Union Protective Life; and Dr. Hollis F. Price, president of LeMoine college.

Miss McGuire, who lives with an aunt and uncle, ranked second at Barret's Chapel in a class of 74.

Zeta Entertains For Bride-Elect

The Zeta Ensemble entertained for Miss Lillian Whitney, bride-elect of Clarence Stokes, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Ray of 1841 S. Parkway East, last Saturday evening.

Miss Whitney, a member of the Ensemble, was presented a sterling silver gift. Mrs. Lue Whitney and Mrs. Irene Stokes, mothers of the engaged couple, and Mrs. Annie M. Naylor, basileus of the sorority were special guests.

Body Of Woman Who Vanished In '62 Found Here

Funeral services for a woman who disappeared in early December and whose body was found here on May 8 were held last week at the Tree of Life Baptist church.

The victim whose death was listed as a suicide, was Mrs. Rosie Harris, wife of James Harris of 277 W. Fields rd., an employee of Kennedy VA hospital.

Mrs. Harris, according to her husband, left home about 6 p.m. on Dec. 1 and told him she was going to the store.

The family car was later found on Front Street near the river and with it were two notes which indicated that she was despondent and was taking her life. Another note was found pinned to a bedspread at her home.

FOUND BY SURVEYORS — Capt. W. M. Hood of the Sheriff's Department said the body was found by some workers making surveys on the river, and that it was in a badly decomposed state.

Harris identified the clothing that was on the victim is that that his wife was wearing at the time she left home.

Chief County Medical Examiner Jerry Francisco reported that there were no marks on the clothing that indicated that the death was anything other than suicide.

Burial was in National Cemetery with Southern Funeral Home in charge of final arrangements.

Requests That Negro Be Placed On School Board

President of the local NAACP, Jesse H. Turner, revealed earlier this week that the Memphis NAACP Branch is requesting that a qualified Negro be appointed to the City Board of Education to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Julian Bonduant.

It was pointed out in the request that Negroes represent almost 50 per cent of the local school population "and the appointment of a Negro would provide a better balanced board to cope with its financial and segregation problems," said a news release.

Arrested On Path Where Moore Was Found Dead

KEENER, Ala. — Immediately following a dramatic memorial service at the spot where William Moore was murdered April 23, 11 Negro and white CORE members who tried to complete Moore's walk to Jackson, were arrested and jailed.

They included Madeleine Sherwood, a stage actress whose participation in the project has drawn considerable attention; Nelson Barr, Jr., Gordon Harris, CORE field worker Claudie Edwards, Bennie Luchion, Arlean Wilke, Albert Uhrie, Don Johnson, Vardwick Jackson and Bob Kacknowski. This brought to 29 the number of persons arrested by Alabama State troopers for attempting to carry on the murdered man's walk on the Federal highways. Three are on a hunger strike in jail: Eric Weinberger, Albert Uhrie and Bennie Luchion.

As soon as Jim Peck, a personal friend of Moore's and a Freedom Rider severely beaten in Alabama, had concluded the service by laying a wreath at the murder site, the 11 walkers donned their placards and started to walk. Before they had proceeded two steps, they were seized by state troopers who had been scrutinizing the memorial service and on occasion harassing the participants. They had already arrested on traffic violations four drivers of the motorcade which had proceeded from Gadsden to the murder site.

Problem Resolved

LONDON — (UPI) — A newspaper advertisement proclaimed "Another solution to the mother-in-law problem — a new house on a select estate where your elderly relatives can be accommodated nearby in a new block of flats."

Lee Raps Government For Cuban $80 Million Relief Program In Face Of Negroes Without Jobs

GREENVILLE, Miss. — An estimated 500 heard a Memphis, Tenn. politician rap the federal government for "spending $80 million a year for relief to Cubans while Negroes suffer from the want of jobs."

George W. Lee, manager of the Atlanta Life Insurance Company branch in Memphis, and a Republican of note, addressed the Mississippi Education Convention of the Baptist church, last Friday night.

"No part of this country will ever again be able to say 'wait the time ain't ripe' to the Negro. The indelible pictures of our time: the neatly-starved first grader, walking straight to her first day at a white school; the terror of the night at Oxford, Miss., the dogs unleashed on the kneeling demonstrators in Birmingham, and the Cubans, migrated to Miami to replace thousands of Negroes in jobs, with the government spending $80 million a year for relief to the Cubans while the Negroes suffer for the want of jobs."

"The Federal government should do more to help Negroes achieve full economic equality. To fail in this can only turn these revolution forces away from their constructive potential and bring irreparable harm to the future of this nation and to freedom itself," said Lee.

"The technical revolution, now threatens to worsen, the Negro's relative opposition in the labor force which has been static for many years."

"In the nation today there is no skilled craft in which Negroes constitute more than two per cent of the workers. Yet, it is in the semi-skilled and unskilled groups that the impact of automation strikes first."

"If our government is sincere about removing the scars of historical abuse and depravation, it will not continue to stand by, as Whitney Young of the Urban League has well said, and 'watch the nation lull itself into a false sense of security concerning the progress of the status of its race relations only to be rudely awakened by a violent explosion.'"

The federal government should concentrate a little less on its multi-million dollar Foreign Aid program and a little more on the problems of our Urban Centers, said Lee to the 500 audience.

Rev. West, pastor of Mt. Moriah Baptist church in Memphis, vice president of the Mississippi State Education Baptist Convention, invited Lee. Funds were raised for the Greenville Industrial college.

Young People's Day At Friendship

Friendship Baptist Church, 1355 Vollintine st., plans to observe Young People's Day, Sunday, June 2, announces Bertrand Shores, chairman. Guest speaker is expected to be Charles R. Brahan of Manassas High school, during a 3 p.m. program.

Plan Public Fund Raising Drive For Camp Care

Plans are being made to start a public drive to raise funds for a day-camp for local Negro boys, announced J. Drew Canale, who was recently elected chairman by a group of interested citizens who are sponsors of the idea.

The recently organized day camp has been named "Camp Care," which is expected to be developed into a model summer day-camp for under-privilege boys between six and 14 years of age, said Chairman Canale.

Camp Care will operate in conjunction with the annual summer day-camp which has been sponsored for the last three years by the City Park Commission and the Memphis

Youth Guidance Commission. Representatives from both commissions and interested citizens compose officers and members of Camp Care.

Officers, other than Chairman Canale, are: Thaddeus T. Stokes, editor of the Tri State Defender, vice chairman; Robert Lewis of the Lewis and Sons Funeral Home, secretary; Robert Wright, owner of the Memphis Bail Bond Agency, executive director; Marion Hale of the Park Commission, program director; and Eules T. Hunt, superintendent of Negro Recreation for the Park Commission, camp director. Coordinator is Capt. Kenneth Turner, executive director of the Youth Guidance Commission.

Named chairmen of committees were: Bill Ross, AFL-CIO representative, financial chairman, who will head the fund raising drive; Joseph, Westbrook, supervisor at the City Board of Education, transportation, chairman; and Nat D. Williams, a teacher at Booker T. Washington and a disc jockey at WDIA, public relations chairman.

Other persons affiliated with Camp Care include: Mrs. Joan Strong, state representative from Memphis; W. C. "Bill" Weathers, assistant manager of Foote-Clearborn Homes, A. Williams, of WDIA; Atty. Russell Sugarmon, C. "Sid"

Carroll of the Drouth Carroll Pontiac Company; Alridge Mitchell coach at Melrose high school, James Cross of City Park Commission and others.

First of the two four-week camping periods will be June 13 to July 10. The second will be July 15 to Aug. 15. And estimated 400 boys will participate in the two camping periods which is about 100 per cent increase over the number served last year.

Slogan for the financial drive will be "If You Care, Send A Boy To Camp Care." Contributions should be sent to: Youth Guidance Commission, "For Camp Care," 128 Adams st., Memphis.

7th Annual Open Golf Tournament June 1-2 On Nashville Links

What has fast become the mid-south's most popular golf event for amateurs, the ANNUAL TOURNAMENT OF the NASHVILLE LINKS golf club, is scheduled for the Cumberland Golf course in Nashville, June 1-2. Both men and women golfers from a five-state area of the middle south, along with competitors from Missouri, Illinois, Ohio and Michigan, are expected to participate.

Tucked alongside the Cumberland river bank, the course is just the right blend of hills, pazzards and length to challenge the skills of the average golfer. Its par 72 layout has two holes over 550 yards in length and four par-4 holes over the 400 yard mark. Qualifying rounds for all players are set for Saturday,

June 1, and on Sunday, June 2, the golfers will compete within flights for the 30 awards and prizes made available through the courtesy of Fallstaff beer. There are seven flights for men, including seniors, and three flights for women — plenty of room for the "hopeful hundred breakers."

A "19th hole" buffet supper, cocktail dance and an open house at the new Bra Club, Saturday night, will add to the Normal hazards of the following day's play.

Nashville boasts of having a wealth of good amateur players to challenge the best that out-of-town cities have to offer. For more information call S. L. Hall, 2016 Clifton Rd., Nashville AL 6-7797.

Ford Road School Issues Report On Reading Project

The first report in a six-year reading program which went into effect a year ago at the Ford Road Elementary school was given to the community at a gathering held at the school recently.

The guest speaker for the occasion was Mrs. Myrtle Cobb, professor of elementary education at Memphis State university.

Mrs. Cobb was introduced to the audience by Arthur C. Rauscher, director of instruction for the Shelby County Board of Education.

During the program held in the school's cafeteria, mimeographed reports were distributed to the audience, and the reading charts included were explained by Mrs. Bertha F. Johnson, second grade teacher.

AN EXPERIMENT
The reading program at the school is an experimental program designed to diagnose and then improve the reading habits of the pupils. Emphasis is being placed on word recognition skills and improvement in comprehension.

Parents and teachers are participating in the program, and as an initial step they did research on techniques and materials used in similar projects. The first five steps that were taken at the outset were:

1. Discovering and beginning work at the pupils' true reading level.

2. Building a sight vocabulary and speeding up recognition of it.

3. Teaching self-help soundings.

4. Developing comprehension.

5. Making available interesting reading at the pupil's level.

Also participating on the program at the school were Mrs. Mary Ann Wrushen, PTA president who gave the call to order; Elder Blair T. Hunt, member of the Shelby County Board of Education, who gave the invocation; and Mrs. Maggie B. Peace, a first grade teacher, who sang a solo.

George H. Barnes, Shelby County superintendent of schools, was introduced to the audience by John E. Strong, principal of the Weaver Elementary school.

Remarks were also made by Isaiah Goodrich, principal of the school, and the benediction given by Rev. Henderson Wilborn, pastor of New Beulah Baptist church.

Cornell Wells, principal of the E. A. Harrold Junior High school at Millington, was the master of ceremonies.

Loses Hero Role
POMONA, Calif. — (UPI) — A 30-year-old father who was halted as a hero for saving his five children from a fire last Jan. 6 was sentenced to one to 10 years in prison for deliberately setting the fire.

MILTON MACK

Milton Mack To Compete In South Dakota

Milton Mack, the fleet-footed advanced freshman at LeMoyn College, and Coach Jerry C. Johnson leave by plane Thursday of this week for Sioux Falls, South Dakota, where Mack will run the 440 - yard event in the NAIA national track meet.

The meet is scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

Mack, a graduate of Booker T. Washington High School, won the 440-yard run at the Alabama State College Invitational Meet in the time of .49.1 and later broke a record set at Arkansas AM&N College's Invitational Meet last year by running the distance in .48.1. He suffered dismal disappointment early this month when he was disqualified after winning the 440 by 20 yards in

.47.0 at the SIAC meet in Atlanta. An official claimed he stepped out of his lane.

Knocked Down Segregated Law Involving Hotels

NEW ORLEANS — Ruling in a case brought by James McClain, CORE organization director, a special three judge district court unanimously invalidated a state law enforcing segregation in hotels. Judge John M. Wisdom and Judge Herbert Christenberry said the decision "dooms the long-standing state wide custom that white hotels may not accept Negro guests."

McClain initiated the case after being refused a room at the Hotel Orleans last November. CORE has planned non-violent action on a major scale if the hotels continue to discriminate when the American Legion holds its convention here in July.

McClain's case was handled by Lolis Elie, CORE attorney, and by Jack Nelson and Ben Smith, attorneys for the American Civil Liberties Union.

Letter To Editor

As a painter, as an instructor of art at LeMoyn College, and as a product of Pratt Institute's graduate school, I was extremely interested in your profile of Jacob Lawrence. I found the article to be a sober well delineated account of one man's art and one man's life.

Both the discussion of the role of his art vis a vis the civil rights struggle and the discussion of his mode of art production (which included the statements made about the place of teaching in the daily life of an artist) were extremely informative and I hope will do much to dispell erroneous notions about the way an artist works.

I found the article so worthwhile that I am making it a piece of recommended reading to my students.

Thank you for publishing it, and thank you certainly for the kind words about Pratt Institute.

RUMORS ARE GETTING LOUDER and louder in the Negro Community about candidate-for-mayor, Judge William Ingram's effect in the race will only siphon off some Negro votes, thus making it easier for Mayor Henry Loeb to return to office, if the race goes into a three-man or more heat.

JAMES H. MEREDITH was swamped by autograph seekers when he appeared in Memphis at Metropolitan Baptist church last Tuesday night to receive an award from the local NAACP Branch. Long after the program had ended, old and young sought to have photographs made with Meredith.

THE COTTON MAKERS' JUBILEE grand parade was bigger than last year, but less controversial. Spectators were from sidewalk to curb deep. Some even spilled over into the street. Meanwhile, thoughts turned to next year's parade.

OLD SOLDIERS, just like old segregationists, never die. They just grow narrower in mind by the day. What decision did the local NAACP expect in the accelerated school desegregation plan submitted in Federal District Court last week. Judge Marion Boyd still rules that roost.

SINCE EULESS T. HUNT has been working with Negro recreation here for the city during the last five years, he has developed a very good recreation program. Presently his job title is "supervisor for Negro Recreation." We think that Hunt should be promoted to assistant superintendent of City recreation, Park Commission Board of Directors, what are you waiting for?

BTW Graduate To Tour Europe With Glee Club

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — A Memphian will be with the University of Michigan Glee Club this summer when the organization takes a six-week tour that will carry them into 12 European countries.

The student is John J. Taylor, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Taylor, Sr., of 631 Jennette pl., who has been a member of the organization since he entered the school in 1958.

The glee club, with some 40 members, will leave the United States and arrive in Rome on Saturday, June 8. After remaining in Rome for three days, the group will go by bus to Naples.

The first concert will be presented in Patras, Greece, and later ones given in Athens and Thessaloniki.

After appearances in Italy and Greece, the glee club will either sing or tour Yugoslavia, Austria, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Luxembourg, Belgium, France, England and Scotland. The group will arrive back in the United States on July 8.

Taylor is presently a graduate student at the university. He received his bachelor of science degree in industrial engineering there early this year and at the same time was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force Reserves.

He expects to complete his

work for the master of arts degree in business administration some time in December, 1963, after which he will enter the Air Force.

Taylor was graduated from Booker T. Washington High school in 1958 as the valedictorian of his class.

TALENT UNIVERSALITIES

tions; Miss Aurelia Rodman, program chairman; songstress and dancer, Mrs. Veniece Starks; Mrs. Florence Williams, mistress of ceremonies; and soloists, Mrs. Louise H. Polk, Mrs. Marguerite Mosley and Mrs. Elma Tunstall Isabell.

MRS. THELMA MOORE

Mrs. Thelma Moore was magnificent with her piano rendition of "Juba Dance Duett." The finale, by the two young ladies making their second appearance, Mrs. Veniece Starks and Miss Maxine Hollingsworth in Latin American costumes showed everyone how to do the newest dance craze, the Bossa Nova. The Universal Life audience was enthusiastic and appreciative as the great store of talent unfolded from typists, stenographers, and other office specialists. "It was a great show, said co-workers.

The program was many-sided. Mrs. Elma Tunstall Isabell started the show with "Wine and Roses" sung to the music of Robert Talley. Other soloists were Mrs. Louise Polk, who sang "Somewhere over

Talent Day At Universal Life

The Personnel of Universal Life Insurance Company's Home Office, 480 Linden ave. was surprised to find so much new and dormant talent in their midst. This talent was uncovered by three members of Universal's sub-forum committee charged with the responsibility for the April Forum Hour. Determined to fulfill their charge, Miss Aurelia Rodman, Mrs. Florence Williams and Mrs. LeEleanor Benson scouted the building in search of talent. The result was 10 acts performed by nine young ladies, excluding the chairman, Miss Rodman, who led devotion and Mrs. Williams, a committee member, who introduced newcomers and assured the program's continuity with her wit and finesse as mistress of ceremonies.

The program was many-sided. Mrs. Elma Tunstall Isabell started the show with "Wine and Roses" sung to the music of Robert Talley. Other soloists were Mrs. Louise Polk, who sang "Somewhere over the Rainbow," also with Robert Talley, and Mrs. Marguerite Mosley, singing "Misty," accompanied by Miss Griselda Brooks. A versatile young lady Mrs. Veniece Starks, who added the jazz tone, accompanied by Robert Talley, his drummer, and saxophonist, sang "Our Day Will Come," and encored with "All Right, OK, You Win."

Dramatic talent was displayed by Miss Maxine Hollingsworth reciting "Unawares" Miss Anita Siggers, with her dramatic portrayal of "I Am an American," and Miss Griselda Brooks who recited an original poem, "A Tribute to Mother."

Mrs. LeEleanor Benson was superb as a comedienne. She gave a comedy narrative designed to show how exacting business and the world are in their demands on us, but for the man of worth they have rich rewards. Though Mrs. Benson's oratory and creativeness are well-known, her impersonations revealed a great talent heretofore hidden.

Atlanta's Hilton Inn Accepts Negro Guests

NEW YORK — Although the Hilton Hotel Corporation has as yet made no public announcement of a change of policy in its Atlanta hotel, Hilton Inn, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People revealed that the chain's Atlanta establishment has been accepting Negro guests for the past several weeks. The refusal of the Hilton Inn to accept a mixed delegation of NAACP representatives from New York City last July led to threats of picketing of Hilton hotels by NAACP units throughout the country and to prolonged negotiations.

Artists and Models Plan June Party

Police Units Unite To Buck Ala. U. Violence

(UPI) — City, county and campus police announced plans to combine into a single force to handle any trouble that may develop over integration of the University of Alabama in June.

Tuscaloosa City and county police canceled vacations for an indefinite period, according to Sheriff Nathan Chism and Chief William Marble. The campus police force is headed by Marshall Allen Reyfield.

Marble said, "We plan to maintain law and order fairly and impartially. We are having meetings to plan for any trouble which may break out here."

The plans were in preparation for the admission of Miss Vivian Malone, 20, of Mobile as a transfer student from Alabama A & M in Huntsville.

A federal judge refused to delay the admission of Miss Malone and David McGlathe, a mathematician with the space agency at Huntsville. McGlathe will attend the university's extension school at Huntsville.

Miss. Integrationist Gel Merit Award

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Medgar W. Evers of Jackson, Miss., who was involved in James Meredith's entrance into the University of Mississippi, will be given a Meritorious Achievement Award at the 20th Anniversary convention of the American Veterans Committee.

The organization of World War II and Korean War veterans is convening at the Mayflower Hotel, May 30 and 31, June 1 and 2. AVC is the first fully integrated veterans organization. Its motto is "Citizens First, Veterans Second."

Evers, NAACP field secretary for the Gulf States, is presently engaged in forming an AVC chapter in Jackson.

Supreme Court Rejects Claim Of Gov. Wallace

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Supreme Court rejected a complaint by Gov. George C. Wallace that President Kennedy acted illegally by sending federal troops into Alabama during the recent Birmingham race violence.

Wallace claimed that the state could handle any situation that might arise. He asked the court to order removal of the federal forces.

The court acted in a one-paragraph, unsigned opinion. Justice Bryon R. White did not participate.

The opinion said "in essence the papers show no more than that the President has made ready to exercise the authority conferred on him by (federal law) by alerting and stationing military personnel in the Birmingham area."

Such purely preparatory measures and their alleged adverse general effects upon (Alabama and its governor) afford no basis for the granting of any relief," the court added.

Wallace had moved to sue the United States and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara directly in the Supreme Court. The constitution gives the Supreme Court original jurisdiction in such cases.

The governor objected to the presence at Fort McClellan and Maxwell Air Force base of some 3,000 troops for use in the event of new racial disturbances.

FUTURE ALARMING

A recent news release stated that one out of every two and one-half marriages end in divorce; sixty per cent of the young people become involved in alcohol, crime and other evils, and the number of broken homes is on the increase each year.

Such accounts coupled with the other unnamed happenings of today makes this world a bitter picture. Well-meaning people and particular parents today are alarmed at the future of the world tomorrow.

Well-thinking people cannot but voice alarm at current world conditions. We are in the midst of such world-wide conditions. My thinking forces me to believe that to a large degree we are responsible for such action. In all walks of life men are trying varied avenues to prevent further extension of such behavior patterns. The conditions demand that we do something to combat that action. But what are we doing?

Today as never before we face a return to that one force never before to give our world a new sense of stability. The foundations of yesterday must become a part of our world today. We must fight today as never before to give our world a new sense of goals and values. The thing that have been declared old and foggy must once again come into our lives and make of us the people that God would have us be.

Years ago a woman of the Bible saw in Jesus the solution to all of her problems. When she could pay tribute no other way she came and washed His feet with a high-priced perfume and dried His feet with her hair. As time went on she saw even more in Jesus. Jesus became a frequent visitor to her home and became very attached to her family.

Then one day while on a preaching mission the brother of Martha, Lazarus died. This caused quite a bit of concern in the household and the family sought the whereabouts of Jesus. When found they informed Him that Lazarus was dead.

After completing His mission Jesus came to the residence of Mary and Martha. Martha ran out and told Him, "Lord, if Thou hadst been here my brother would not have died." How applicable this same thing is to our day and time. If Jesus were the center of or lives many of the things now happening would never happen.

FALL SHORT

The social, cultural, educational, and economic processes of our day have all fallen far short of solving the problems of our day. We are not discrediting the possibilities of these forces; their only weaknesses lie in the fact that they have not gone far enough.

Only to the degree that spiritual and moral forces are at work within the areas of these processes will those who are exposed to them be able to become the men and women so badly needed in our world. We can say what we will or may but the greatest needs of today are wrapped up in the fact that men in all walks of life must be exposed to those spiritual and moral forces that will make of them the greatest individuals of which they are capable.

Today our world needs tall men of untarnished character. This can be realized only to the extent that each person has a working knowledge of Jesus that has become a part of his personal life. We must be in a position to lead leadership along spiritual and moral lines that will inspire other people to live as nobly as possible.

Anything short of this will thwart our mission here on this earth. We must allow people as they see, hear, and talk with us be conscious of the very presence of Jesus in our lives. Only to the extent that we do this will our mission here on earth be justified. We must personally see Jesus and do all that we can to show Him to others.

Church Of Living God Holds General Confab

NASHVILLE — A total of finance and membership reports, outlines of church structure expansions and reports on spiritual advancement for the new year.

The Church of the Living God, Pillar Ground of Truth, will be convened at the church national headquarters by its Chief Overseer Bishop M. L. Jewell, who has remained in Nashville the past days making official arrangements for "probably the biggest assembly in more than 50 years."

Delegations will register from Florida, Mississippi, Alabama, California, Missouri, Kansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania and Nassau.

Two new states added to the national roster this year are New York and New Jersey where new churches have been established with thriving memberships and meeting houses.

Bishop L. L. Harrison, first vice-president of the church and special assistant to Bishop Jewell, will be on hand to help direct activities of the assembly. Also expected are 27 other bishops from throughout the country.

Church business will include

Mass Choir Concert To Be Sponsored For Benefit Of Owen

A mass choir concert for the benefit of Owen college is set for Saturday, June 16 at 7:45 p.m., at Mason Temple, announces A.C. Williams, program coordinator.

It is being sponsored by the Baptist Education Fund Commission of the Tennessee Baptist Missionary and Educational Convention and the Baptist Pastors Alliance.

Bennie Jenkins, who recently auditioned in the Metropolitan Opera Auditions, will be assisted by Mrs. Rose Peterson and Charles N. Terrell.

Jenkins invites all persons interested in singing with the group to attend rehearsals at 7:30 p.m. on Monday and Thursday nights at Mt. Nebo Baptist Church, 555 Vance at Lauderdale.

The accompanists are Mrs. Elizabeth Romby on piano and George McFall on organ. Tickets will be available at all participating churches and at the Owen College business office.

Dixie Heights Club Presents Its Annual Tea

The Dixie Heights Christian Fellowship club held its annual tea last Sunday at the Lella Walker clubhouse, and a large crowd was on hand to witness and participate.

Members of the club were dressed in white and had orchid corsages.

The main item on the program was a fashion show with models displaying the latest in street, sport, after-five and formal clothes.

The club's main goal is to foster better Christian relationship among the women of the Dixie Heights community. The club gives the family some assistance.

Officers of the club are Mrs. Hattie Ingram, president; Mrs. Frances Meadows, vice president; Mrs. Laura Bowens, secretary; Mrs. Lillian Reynolds, chairman. Sick Committee: Mrs. Lottie Mae Lloyd, chairman. Social Committee: Mrs. Willie L. Martin and Mrs. Laura Bowen, co-chairman of Social Committee.

Women At Bethel Conduct Worship Service Sunday

Since women constitute a significant segment of the laity of the church, the United Presbyterian Women of Bethel were charged to conduct the Sunday Morning Worship Service.

Activities were centered around the theme "What Do We Owe The Church?"

Mrs. J. H. Robison, case worker of Family Service and a United Presbyterian Woman, was the speaker for the morning. Her message points out some of the broad implications involving the church today.

With the conviction that Christian love is the basic foundation for wholesome family life, Mrs. J. H. Robison chose excerpts from the 13th chapter of first Corinthians as a scriptural reference.

"Love is patient and kind; love is not jealous or boastful; it is not arrogant or rude. Love does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it does not rejoice at wrong but rejoices in the right. Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, and endureth all things."

Mrs. Robinson stressed the importance of parents becoming more and more aware of the needs of their children.

"We need to look beyond the fact that every child needs food, clothing and shelter and develop understanding of his need for love, affection, security and independence and consistent discipline." If we as parents communicate to our children ideas of personal integrity and honesty a feeling of responsibility for themselves and others, out of our homes will emerge true adults; industrious, independent, emotionally healthy responsible adults who can build good lives for themselves, their families, their communities and perhaps the world. Rev. J. A. McDaniel is the pastor.

Minister Speaks To Students At Sand Flat School

MT. PLEASANT, Miss. — Rev. W. C. Armstrong, presiding elder of the Holly Springs Episcopal district, delivered the main address during the baccalaureate services for Sand Flat Junior High school in Mt. Pleasant on Sunday, May 19.

Music for the program was furnished by the glee club, and the selections included "Just A Closer Walk With Thee," and "Oh, Didn't It Rain?"

Platform guests included Mrs. Robie Rankins, supervisor of Marshall County schools; Lawrence Autry, principal of Henry High school; W. D. Foster, principal of the Benton County High school, and E. Edward Lee, free-lance writer and husband of one of the teachers at Sand Flat.

Sarita Brown To Be Presented In Piano Recital At Mt. Olive CME

The Madonna Guild, a young women's club of Mt. Olive CME church, 538 Linden, will present Miss Sarita Brown in a piano and organ recital June 9, in the church sanctuary from 4 to 6 p.m.

Miss Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Sr. She attended LaRose Elementary School through the eighth grade and was graduated from Booker T. Washington High School. After studying at Fisk university, she will receive the bachelor of music degree from Florida A. & M. university, Tallahassee, Fla. at the end of the third trimester in August.

A communicant of Mt. Olive CME church, Miss Brown was a regular attendant at Sunday School, and was a teacher-assistant of the infant class. Also active with the Christian Youth Fellowship, and the choir, she was assistant organist for the church prior to leaving Memphis for further study. She was a Girl Scout through the senior Scout program, remaining interested and active in the Scout program as a Junior Scout Leader.

A member of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, Miss Brown has been presented in concert by FAMU's Music Department in the Tallahassee and Jacksonville, Florida area.

Graduates of the 1963 class will be honored guests.

Four of the reunion classes will start the ball rolling Friday night, May 31, with receptions and parties. The 1953 graduates will hold forth at the Memphis Club, the 1943 group will be at the Sigma House, the 33's at Four-Way Grill and 23's at 706 E. Trigg.

National President Lonnie F. Briscoe said a full day of activity is scheduled for Saturday, June 1, opening with registration in the Brownlee Hall lobby from 8:45 to 11 a. m. and a coffee hour and tour of the new library building from 9 to 10:45 a. m. Coffee will be served in the library's Alumni Room.

The annual business session is to be held in the Brownlee Lecture Hall at 11 a. m., followed by the President's Luncheon at 12:30 in the Commons. President Hollis F. Price will address the alumni at the luncheon, discussing "The State of the College in 1963."

There also will be a question and answer period.

PROGRAM

The evening schedule includes a reunion program at 8 in Bruce Hall, to be followed by an off-campus social affair.

The evening program is to be a stellar affair, featuring the "parade of the 3's" and presentation of outstanding alumni. Highlighting the 8 o'clock program will be the appearance of State Representative James P. Davis of Kansas City, Kans., a 1943 graduate of LeMoyne, and retired Prof. Rufus J. Hawkins of Franklinton, N.C., a former dean of LeMoyne.

Both of the distinguished gentlemen will speak at the evening program.

Representative Davis is the son of the late Mrs. Chaney Davis of Memphis and the brother of Miss Alma Z. Davis of 1385 Quinn, a teacher at Hyde Park Elementary School.

Mr. Hawkins will be accompanied to Memphis by his wife. He was honored here some years ago when LeMoyne's student chapter of the National Education Association was named for him.

Representative Davis, although on leave from the prosecuting attorneys office where he is second assistant, was appointed a special city attorney by Mayor Paul F. Mitchum of Kansas City, Kans. in January of this year to try condemnation cases in connection with Interstate Project 35, the Turkey Creek extension. He was assigned 24 of the 48 appeal cases filed by property owners.

LECTURES

In May of this year, he was appointed to the staff of the Kansas City, Kans. Police Academy as a lecturer in the field of evidence. He and Mrs. Davis are parents of three children.

Chairman of reunion activities is Mrs. Charlie P. Roland.

Division chairmen working with Mrs. Roland are:

Program, Mrs. Fairy P. Austin; Display, Mrs. Lorene Osborne and Santee Gholston; Coffee Hour, Mrs. Ernestine

The Alabama Struggle

The long night of despair continues to torment the soul of black folk in Birmingham. In its massive effect, the struggle is reminiscent of the Warsaw ghetto uprising in Poland which blazed forth twenty years ago this spring.

The parallel is not extreme; although parallels are never exact. But there is much identity of motives, and ends sought. The methods, however, were not the same. The Polish Jews fought their oppressors with whatever weapons they had down to the bare knuckles.

There are times in human relations when passivity is mistaken for cowardice. The old theory that says nothing risked, nothing gained is as true as any scriptural prophecy. The experience of mankind, all throughout history, supports the conviction that you don't redress ingrained social wrongs by engaging in a whispering campaign.

Newspaper Criticism

The editor of a newspaper in New York, the Brooklyn Daily, has been indicted on a charge of criminal libel for an editorial which allegedly impugned the integrity of a judge. There would be nothing of great note in the case if the judge had brought a civil libel suit against the editor.

Criminal libel prosecutions have fortunately been very rare in the United States since the acquittal of Peter Zenger more than 200 years ago in colonial New York. The last one we know about was brought against the Washington Post a couple of years ago in Montgomery County, Md., and was dismissed as soon as a competent court took a serious look at it.

The merits of the Brooklyn newspaper's criticism are beside the point. If the editorial unfairly impugned his integrity or damaged his reputation, the judge is clearly entitled to receive damages and a vindication through a civil suit.

But a criminal prosecution brings the power of the government to the rectification of a private wrong. And it poses the gravest threats to the editorial independence upon which readers must rely for their freedom of the press.

The House Where You Live

The City of Memphis has received awards for being "one of the cleanest cities in the nation." This is good. We are proud of the awards. However, we shouldn't stop there. We should put forth every effort to make Memphis one of the prettiest cities in the nation.

This will require the cooperation of businessmen, civic and social organizations, city officials, churches and religious organizations and all citizens. Of course! I would like to see City Beautiful Commission, which has done a marvelous job in spearheading the annual "Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up" campaign, take the lead in this project.

There is very little tenants can do about painting the houses they live in. However, there is a lot owners can do — and I feel, would do if it is properly pointed out that the house, apartments too, should be painted and repaired in an effort to beautify the city.

SIGHT OF BEAUTY

The tenant can do a tremendous bit in beautifying the city by sowing grass where it is non-existing — and mowing grass where it is untended. Shrubbery and flowers in a well organized garden or lawn can turn a drab house into a sight of beauty.

Some people would lead one to believe that they desire the retrogress to the age of their forefathers, who according to historians — lived in caves and trees. I get this feeling whenever I pass houses where tenants do not clear away weeds and other debris. Particularly where they treat a house as if it is just a shelter in a jungle.

Another point, the building code for dwellings must be tightened, particularly codes governing multi-dwellings. Contractors are permitted to much leniency in erecting multi-dwellings. It is obvious that little care is given concerning conformity of a street or neighborhood. Also most of the multi-dwellings that I have inspected — that is, those constructed recently — are not substantial enough to withstand wear-and-tear for any appreciable length of time. I refer to such dwellings as "created slums," poorly constructed and located in By this I mean, the dwellings are so such densely populated areas until it is only a matter of a few years until this once shining, new building becomes an eye-sore and a discredit to the city. The City's planning Board should take immediate steps to correct this loose code which will permit multi-dwellings to be constructed of unsubstantial materials, situated in any manner on plots of land far too small to hardly accommodate a cat-walk beside the dwelling. This is tolerating the "seeding of beds of crime."

Why not talk to your neighbor about beautifying Memphis. Why not talk to public, elected officials about beautifying Memphis. Why don't you talk to your clubs about making Memphis the prettiest city in the nation.

First, start with yourself by beautifying the lawn or the exterior of the house where you live.

Even Christianity, the greatest single spiritual force in the world, was not established without sacrifice in blood. The obstinacy of Governor Wallace of Alabama, his contemptible utterances about the racial troubles in his state, confirm the belief that the time for petition has long expired.

It is more and more apparent, says Erwin D. Canham, of the Christian Science Monitor, that the problem of Birmingham must be settled by the people of Birmingham. "Disorders may spread to the point where the federal government has to intervene, but the federal government will not settle the issues."

"Only when the people of Birmingham decide that they must have civil order, justice, and stability, and that they are willing to pay the price, will the tragic confrontation of races be on the road to solution."

Southern Nightmare Stirs 'Back Our Brothers' Action

THIS COLUMN is being written on the morning of the day of my trip to Birmingham with Floyd Patterson.

Last night — or rather, early this morning — at about 1 o'clock — I received an urgent call from a brilliant and brave young man for whom I have the greatest respect and admiration.

His name is Wyatt Tee Walker. He is a thirty-three-year-old minister and executive assistant to Dr. Martin Luther King.

Wyatt was calling less than twenty-four hours after some diehard segregationists of Birmingham, angered because white businessmen had given in to Dr. King's demands, retaliated by attempting to assassinate Dr. King with a bomb planted at the Gaston Motel.

Had Dr. King been in Birmingham and in the room which has been his headquarters at the Gaston, he would have been murdered.

Wyatt wanted to know if I knew anyone who could make an immediate White House contact. If so, he was asking that I get in touch with them and seek to persuade someone of the need for the most vigilant Federal Security to guard the persons of Dr. King and Dr. Abernathy.

Burn Lines To D. C.

NOEL MARDER, the young Yonkers businessman who founded the "Back Our Brothers" Movement also had been contacted by Wyatt. Noel and I got the telephone wires burning to Washington. A contact was made with a top Presidential advisor who got out of bed to assure us that the White House had been alerted about the danger and that every precaution was being taken to safeguard Dr. Martin L. King and Dr. Ralph Abernathy.

I think the White House realized that, if any harm came to any of the four horse-men of the Birmingham civil rights battle — King, Abernathy, Shuttlesworth (already hospitalized after being hosed to the ground by local police) there would be no stopping brutal race rioting, not only in Birmingham, but all throughout the country.

As it was, Wyatt himself, had already experienced first-hand the murderous barbarity of Governor Wallace's storm troopers.

That same afternoon, while Rev. Walker's petite and attractive wife had been visiting him from their Atlanta home — accompanied by their four small children — the local Gestapo had rushed into the patio of the Gaston and ordered everyone into the building. When Mrs. Walker turned to obey, a hulking police officer smashed

ALFRED DUCKETT

SOME OF OUR best friends are white people.

Most of them think that Dr. Martin Luther King is a marvelous man with a marvelous mission.

But — there's a but. They think he made two mistakes in Birmingham.

They think he should have waited until the Alabama Supreme Court decided whether Birmingham is to be run by the mouthy Fascist, Bull O'Connor or by the so-called "moderate" Boutwell.

They also think it was a "shame" that Dr. King "used children" to dramatize the brutal segregation question.

With respect to the first view, even the most sensitive and sincere of our white friends sometimes fail to realize that personal freedom and the recognition of the the butt of his carbine against the back of her head.

The blood streaming down her face, Mrs. Walker was rushed to the hospital. She was in great pain. But later in the day, Wyatt decided to send her back to Atlanta in the family car.

In Atlanta, police stopped her for "passing a stop light." When she argued that she had not been guilty of this offense and spunkily refused to pay a $15 fine, they promptly jailed Mrs. Walker and the four small Walker children.

Beaten By Police

AS THIS was going on, Wyatt himself was returning to the police-surrounded 32-block area about the hotel. Although he had been given permission by police to leave the area, when he returned his car was stopped and he was told he could not re-enter.

He got out of the car to walk the rest of the way and two officers jumped him and beat him unmercifully with nightsticks.

As he talked with me, Wyatt was a scared young man. This was all the more disturbing because I know that he doesn't scare in the most dangerous situations and, believe, me he has been through them in a half-dozen Southern cities.

Yet, I noticed that — with his wife beaten, with his own body aching with cruel pain, Wyatt was not scared for himself. He was afraid for his children. He was afraid for what might happen to Dr. King.

He was afraid for what could happen in America if King or Abernathy or Shuttlesworth were killed.

Thank You Trip

THE "BACK OUR BROTHERS" movement is sending Floyd Patterson and me to Birmingham to thank Dr. King and the heroic Birmingham youngsters who freedom-marched on to the world's front pages and into the world's conscience.

That's the least we can do — to say "thank you" to Martin King, to Wyatt, to Abernathy and Shuttlesworth and Mrs. Walker.

We can do more. We don't have to face beatings. We can send freedom dollars to the Back Our Brothers Movement which is raising a war chest so that the Martin Kings and Wyatt Walkers will know we are with them.

Send your contributions to this column or to "Back Our Brothers" c/o Noel Marder, 733 Yonkers Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

Next week, I'll write about Floyd Patterson's and my personal experiences in Birmingham.

human dignity of the Negro are one hundred years overdue.

Would They Say 'Wait'?

HOW WOULD they phrase advice to their own children to "wait" until next year — or even tomorrow — to be able to toss a ball, ride a swing or play hide and seek in a public park supported by the taxes of all citizens?

What kind of logical justification would they employ in explaining to Junior or Sue that, after four hours of shopping in a department store, after having your money cheerfully accepted at every counter, you must not think of asking to purchase an orange juice or a ham sandwich at the lunch counter?

How easy is it to tell a child why his father* is unemployed because of industry or labor bias — or kept in the position of

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKERS

This is a rough season . . . this year 1963 . . . for speakers selected to address Negro high schools and college graduating classes. The same is most likely true for speakers who address white classes.

It's rough because Commencement speeches are supposed to be things of inspiration, triumph, direction, and other trite approaches . . . rarely, if ever designed to get down to earth and face the facts of the day in understandable terms for the youngsters involved. Of course, there are others involved with the happenings in the Commencement speaker's audience.

They include the parents and relatives . . . who need no reminder that they have "sacrificed and toiled" to bring junior and his female counterpart "thus far on their way."

Then there are the teachers . . . those perennial guardians of the status quo symbolized by the members of the Board of Education. There are the administrative offices of the school or the system . . . present and accounted for one way or the other at all commencement proceedings. And first, but by no means least, there's the representative of the folk who foot the bills . . . the taxpayers, or alumni and trustees of the school where the commencement exercise is being given or for whom it is being staged.

LIKE BANDITS

Those elements in the commencement speakers' audiences make a difference on what he has to say. He has to be something of a crowd pleaser. Every now and then a commencement speaker comes along who has something other than what he is expected to say. But they are few and far between. Such are ready to get it in the neck. Others play it safe . . . say nothing.

But things occasionally take a turn for the worse for commencement speakers . . . if they safely say nothing . . . they look bad and place themselves in the position of taking the people's money like bandits. Times like these in the United States make it hard on commencement speakers.

What would you say to bunch of Negro children in the South at their Commencement in times like these?

The nation today is faced with a climactic turn of its oldest and toughest domestic problem . . . the status of the American Negro. The upsurge of demands for human dignity all over the world has been felt by the American Negro. Like the submerged peoples of Africa, Asia, and elsewhere in the world they have heard the siren call of the eagles of liberty, justice, human dignity, and freedom for the spirit as well for the body and mind.

The reaction of what Kipling called "these lesser breeds without the law" to those calls of the "eagles" has upset the social, political, and power patterns of the world. It is shaking the United States to its dollar-centered foundation. It is trying America's faith in its professed principles of freedom, liberty, equality, and justice. It has put the Christian Church back in the Garden of Gethsemane . . . the place of final decision. If the church in the United States doesn't answer in the affirmative it will be destroyed in ten years, so badly shattered it won't be recognizable as a Christian institution.

TRUTH OF LIFE

Most commencement speakers can't afford to come near to speaking such sentiments, with much hope of being asked to return again or go to another institution. Yet, there sit the youngsters in their commencement formality, waiting in more or less good faith, for some world-shaking "message" that will motivate them for the remainder of their lives.

But, on the other hand it might be better to say "maybe so." Maybe the youngsters . . . especially Negro youngsters . . . would like for their commencement exercises to be one of the few occasions where they can forget the issues involved in being Negroes . . . the burning issues of the day.

It still brings one back more emphatically to the dilemma of today's commencement speaker and his duty. His problem is: Should he use the occasion to inspire, inform, entertain, or just detain? How would you do?

That's the $64 question, Mac . . . if you see the facts of truth and life from a prostrate position. Now, whatchubet!

Great Man On Great Mission

porter when he could become a clerk?

If Christ had waited at Gethsemane — if Crispus Attucks had waited at Boston Commons or George Washington at Valley Forge or Grant before Richmond or Eisenhower on D-Day or Kennedy before the ultimatum on Cuba — we might, none of us, be here to tell the tale.

Children Were Inspired

AS TO THE "use of children," "today's Negro child — and I have seen the light upon their faces and heard the songs streaming from their lips as they marched to jail in Birmingham — are not content to wait.

Dr. King did not "use" them. They used his contagion of conviction, his inspiration for right, his freedom from fear to get the dedication to join the long columns of human souls.

Salesman Scores In Loop Store

By DAVE POTTER

"Should I wear Continental suits?" "How long should the sleeves be?" "Is Ivy League styling 'square' now?"

These are some of the questions which face urbane Charles Offutt, 4, of 8237 S. Maryland each day. Offutt is the only Negro salesman in the men's furnishings department at Lytton's posh Loop diggings. He is one of a scant handful of Negroes so employed by a prestige store.

And the circumstances preceding his hiring by the store were utopian. Offutt was a job-seeker who was hired solely because of his ability and with no regard to any extraneous issues.

URBAN LEAGUE

"I went to the Urban League to look for work when the brokerage firm I was working for, as a clerk, merged with an Eastern firm," Offutt said.

He explained that his work experience was diverse and he could operate a great number of office machines, and possessed other business skills.

"The Urban League interviewer asked me if the qualifications I'd listed on my application were correct. When I told him they were, he asked if I would like to be a salesman at a downtown store."

Offutt went to Lytton's for men's clothing salesman job the next day and was hired. All of this took place a little more than a month-and-a-half ago. Today, he is an integral part of the store's sales staff.

SECOND FLOOR

Corned in his second-floor domain, the new employee admitted, "To me, this job is ideal because I have always loved good clothes and I have always loved to wear them well."

He was dressed in a dark blue, two - button, double-breasted suit, an immaculate, white button - down Oxford shirt, a cream and maroon-dotted tie with matching handkerchief that peeked out of his suit coat pocket.

"When I was hired, I told my wife, 'Dear, it looks like I'll be working for Lytton's,' and she was gassed. So were my family, friends and other relatives."

CHARLES OFFUTT

Probably one of the "selling points" that sold Offutt to the Lytton's management was his successful employment as a haberdashery salesman in a Parisian clothing shop on Rue Chamblée in the Montparnasse region during an extended European trip he took "to see some of the world."

24,000 FRANCS

"I was earning about 24,000 francs a week," he said, "but don't be impressed, because that amounts to about $65 a week in American money." He said he learned "an awful lot" about men's clothing in that French shop.

Another factor was that he is a nephew of famed entertainer Bobby Short. Association with his uncle and his uncle's colleagues has kept salesman Offutt in "close touch with America's style trendsetters"—mostly jazz musicians and other show folk.

"These are the people who set styles in America," Offutt declared. "Some start fashion trends with the clothes they wear both on and off stage."

He listed jazz trumpeter Miles Davis' introduction of the two-button, double-breasted blazer, Sammy Davis, Jr., and the Congressman's boot (a shoe similar to a Lincoln-rider boot), and other fashionplates including jazz pianist Bobby Timmons, Cary Grant, Nat Aschberry and Eddie Fisher.

"It works this way," Offutt pointed out, "one of these people wears something different. Young people notice it, go to stores and ask for it; the storeowners listen, and tell the buyers. The buyers buy it, and a trend begins."

When asked whether there was a trend afoot, Offutt replied, "Besides the popularity of Continental styling, individuality has come to men's clothing."

A few years ago, Oxford grey suits worn with tattersall vest were common among men just as the grey flannel suits were along Madison Ave. in New York. Today, men don't want to see themselves coming down the street and they are putting more emphasis on the important details of their suits. American men have become more style-conscious, and are going in for a flair in their wardrobes without losing all-important good taste."

Questioned about the most common fault he found among men in their selection of clothes, Offutt replied:

WRONG COLOR

"Color. If you just look, you will notice that most men's suits clash with their skin tones. Sometimes it lends a pallor to the wearer, and sometimes it gives him an eerie look."

"And among Negroes, there is a simple rule of thumb: the lighter in color the suit, the darker you look."

While on a racial tangent, Offutt was asked about his acceptance by customers and his colleagues.

"At first I was worried about being accepted more than anything else," he recalled. "I guess I was thinking of the negative side of this 'pioneer thing.' But on my first day, I didn't have to worry. Everywhere I turned, there was a helping hand. Of course I did make boners, but again, there were the helping hands to show me the right way—the Lytton's way."

LISTS BUDDIES

Without faltering, he named fellow salesmen Michael Calloway, Martin Gould, Mario Marsette, Harry Wagner, Joe Livingston, Roy Odoy, Steve Stoll, John Moore, Joe Klein, Paul Eckenrode, and his supervisor, Joe Hirtler. Tactfully, he added "And anyone I might have forgotten."

What about the customers? "At first some notice my color."

Then invariably we get on the subject of clothes or accessories, and they begin seeing me as a salesman."

He mentioned that among his "personal" customers — people who ask for him by name—are television editorial commentator John Madigan and model Bob Johnson.

According to Earl K. Boyce, Lytton's general superintendent, and the man who hired Offutt, "He was hired solely on his ability. We are very proud of him. He feels at home on our selling floor, and he is an accomplished salesman."

OFFUTT NOT FIRST

Boyce pointed out that a Negro previously hired in the position was "not satisfactory." "We waited a while before filling the slot again, then asked the Urban League to help us find a qualified Negro. Charles Offutt is the result, and as I said, we are very happy with him," Boyce added.

He was asked whether Offutt's hiring could be considered to be a "grandstand play" to extrude more Negro dollars into the store.

"Absolutely not," he answered. "I could have as easily hired a white man for the slot, but I just felt that a qualified Negro should have the job."

Actually, we have many Negro employees here and in our branch stores."

Boyce did add, however that most of the Negro employees were working on a blue collar level.

He noted that one of Offutt's colleagues, a Japanese, "had been working there for six or seven years, and earns in excess of $10,000 per year."

FIGURES INDICATE

Lytton's did a $19,000,000 business last year.

FRINGE BENEFITS

Boyce said that as a Lytton's employee, Offutt is able to take part in the store's massive profit-sharing program. "We are probably the only large store that has such a program."

Also, new employees can benefit from a liberal discount given on all merchandise, group insurance, "the bulk of which is paid by the store," and other fringe benefits.

He intimated that Offutt has an edge in his selling chores.

"Salesmen work on the call system, that is, as customers come onto the floor, salesmen are assigned to them in rotation, unless the customer asks for a personal, or specific salesman. Being a Negro, Offutt is asked for by Negro customers."

DANVILLE, ILL.

Offutt, a product of Danville, Ill., attended Wilson Junior College and Eastern Illinois State College at Charleston with hopes of becoming a commercial artist. He attended high school in California, and spent time in New York City visiting his entertainer-uncle.

In 1960 he married the former Marcia Route, of Dallas, Tex. Mrs. Offutt is an information operator with the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. The couple have no children.

Offutt got away from art as a profession, but still practices his craft as a hobby, which he shares with listening to jazz records and roller skating. His biggest unofficial hobby is "learning more about clothes."

True to the profession of neo - salesmanship, Offutt maintains a massive card file of 1,500 names. "Many of these people I already know," he said, "and the rest I hope to meet soon."

He said he plans to establish a rapport that surmounts the usual salesman-customer relationship. "Even if people aren't buying something, I'd like them to either drop in or call me at Lytton's whenever they have a problem that concerns clothes or accessories."

To keep abreast with the huge men's apparel industry although, as he puts it, "men's fashions don't change nearly as quickly as women's," the Offutt domicile is deluged with all manner of periodicals and reading matter on the subject.

He is planning to appear in various area fashion shows and to address groups, on "Clothes And Wearing Them Properly."

He said the idea came to him when he noticed that many customers and friends had basic questions about clothing.

"One man asked me 'Since the advent of the Continental suit, was Ivy League square to wear?' I had to tell him that the Ivy League suit is standard, and would probably be for the next 100 years."

"The Continental suit is for the man who wants that extra flair of European influenced detail in his suit," he explained.

"Another time, I was asked 'How much shirt cuff should extend beyond the suit jacket cuff?' I told him that most men prefer anywhere between a quarter to a half-inch, but that seeing one or two inches is not a rarity."

He mentioned that many customers have called him to thank him for his suggestions about their wardrobes.

"Whenever that happens," he sighed, "you get a great feeling, and you can do no wrong for the rest of the day. I remember once, a customer came in, and said he had money to buy clothes, but couldn't decide whether to buy a sport coat, or a suit."

"I told him something that my uncle once told me: that you can wear a suit to an informal affair, but you can't wear a sports coat to an affair which calls for business suits. Anyway, he bought a suit, and about a week later, called and thanked me. A day after he called, he came in and bought over $200 worth of suits."

Offutt is earning more money now than he ever did in his life.

Evidence of the newcomer's selling proficiency was manifested when he came in first in a suit-selling contest between Lytton's salesmen.

"I had no idea that I would win, and I wasn't expecting to hear my name mentioned at the Saturday morning sales meeting where the winner was to be announced. My knees turned to jelly when I accepted a mint-new camera."

He pointed out that one night at home, he was totalling his week's commissions and kept saying to himself "this figure can't be right. Finally I let my wife add them up and it turned out to be correct. I had beat my quota."

When asked what he plans to do with his new found affluence, Offutt said, I want to buy a car and I am going to send a healthy check to the Urban League."

FOLLOWS DAD'S FOOTSTEPS AT WEST POINT

Howard University freshman James D. Fowler, Jr. (right), is congratulated by Lt. Col. John C. Robinson, professor of military science at Howard, following Fowler's notification of his appointment to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., in July. A college of liberal arts student, Fowler will be following in the footsteps of his father, Col. Fowler, who was graduated from West Point in 1941. Col. Fowler, who resides with his wife and two other children in Baltimore, now serves as professor of military science at Morgan State College. Col. Robinson is also a Baltimorean. Young Fowler will be the fourth Howard student in as many years to leave the Howard ROTC program for a service academy. His predecessors include Charles H. Bush, Jr. of Washington and Roger Simms of Brooklyn, N. Y., both seniors at the Air Force Academy, and Joseph P. Reason, a junior at the Naval Academy.

Church Group Moves To Dissolve Negro Arm

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. — (UPI) — The Troy, N.Y. Methodist Conference called for an end to segregation within the Methodist church by terminating the Central (Negro) Jurisdiction.

The action is expected by some leaders here to touch off bitter resentment from Southern Methodists.

The Methodist Church, under a plan adopted in 1939, is divided into five predominantly white geographical jurisdictions across the United States. A Central Jurisdiction for Negroes overlapping all jurisdictions was formed to placate Southern Methodists when the various branches of the church united.

The Conference authorized a petition to the 1964 General Conference of the Church to terminate the Negro jurisdiction by 1968.

Leaders here called the segregated structure a "barrier to Christian brotherhood" and an "affront to our gospel." They said they could not see how the church could preach integration outside of the church when the church itself was segregated.

The plan, they said, had "outlived its usefulness."

The Rev. Dr. William L. Alderson of Bridgeport, Conn., pointed out, however, that many Negro leaders are reluctant to change the present structure because the ratio of Negro-white membership on a geographical basis would result in the election of fewer Negroes to the general boards and agencies of the church.

More than 600 ministers and laymen from the Troy conference are attending the 131st annual meeting.

Like Others, Negro Authors Write What They Feel, Not For Market

By ERNESTINE COFIELD

On the bright cover of the pocketbook is a picture of a blonde girl and a white boy. The title of the book is "Corner Boy," a story of tough teenagers in St. Louis. The author is Herbert Simmons.

There was nothing on the cover to indicate that Simmons was a Negro or that the main character in the book was a Negro. It was a book with a theme that would sell. It dealt with tough teenagers, dope and sex. The publishers wanted to make money on their investment.

There was nothing in Willard Motley's novel "Knock On Any Door" to indicate the author was a Negro. For years Frank Yerby has turned out books about beautiful white women in the anti-bellum South and their torrid love affairs.

These are only a few of the Negroes who have written about non-Negro subjects. Every year, authors who want to see their work in print publish through the vanity presses. Many of these books are about non-Negro subjects.

But the authors of the 1920s, 30s and early 40s, who made names for themselves, wrote about Negroes. Richard Wright found a wide range of readers in his sensational books "Native Son" and "Black Boy." Books like "My Eye Is On the Sparrow," autobiography by Ethel Waters, have received wide readership among whites because she started out by stating she had no idea who her father was. This is the image many whites have of Negro life.

Jessie Bennett Sams autobiography of "White Mother," proved popular among white readers because it painted the picture with which they like to be identified.

Basically, though, Negro authors are no different from their white counterparts. They write what they feel and not for a particular market.

In terse terms, Willard Motley said, "I cannot speak for other authors, but as far as I am concerned, I write what I feel. I must write without thinking of a market of any kind."

"I might add that I don't like 'professional Negroes' or 'professional Jews' by this I mean those who can see no further than their poor, suffering people."

Sharing his feelings, John A. Williams, author of prize-winning "Night Song" and "Sis-sie," stated, "I think that any writer who slants his work for any market is in trouble; his appeal, whether his characters be black or white, should be universal."

ADVICE TO AUTHORS

Any budding author is always advised to write about what he knows best. A white novelist, ordinarily, writes about whites. So, why should not a Negro write about the things around him?

Langston Hughes, the first Negro author to earn his living solely by writing in more than a century, believes this strongly.

He commented, "There is so much richness in Negro humor, so much beauty in black dreams, so much dignity in our struggle and so much universality in our problems, in us—in each living human being of color—that I do not understand the tendency today that some American Negro artists have of seeking to run away from themselves, or running away from us, of being afraid to sing our own songs, paint our own pictures, write about ourselves—when it is in our music that has given American its greatest music; our humor that has enriched its entertainment media, our rhythm that has guided its dancing feet from plantation days . . ."

"There is no doubt that books written by Negroes are being read more today than 20 years ago," Williams said. "Of course, the reasons for the wide spread reading of Negro authors' works may have changed; curiosity, keeping tabs on black thought and perhaps even a genuine desire to understand the Negro may be contributing factors."

READ AS WRITERS

Stated Motley, "I think today that Negro authors are read as writers whereas, 20 years ago, they were read as 'Negro writers.'"

But to Chester B. Himes, who went to live in Europe in 1953, there has been a change within the last 10 years.

He reasoned, "More American Negro writers are being published in America than when I left the country 10 years ago. The Negro writer is much more fashionable today, and I suspect James Baldwin's success has had something to do with it."

"If this trend continues, it will be creatively very good for all forms of Negro writing, and one day, people might cease to think of books by Negroes as Negro books but as books, period," Himes concluded.

WANT GOOD WORKS

"Publishers are anxious for good manuscripts about anything," Hughes pointed out, "and they don't care who writes them. The success of Ann Petry, Willard Motley and Frank Yerby writing about white people proves that."

"It is true," he added, "that if you're writing about Negro life or Negroes, it's a limited field, but it's also true that one publisher won't put out more than one book about China, for instance, in one season."

Langston Hughes, a prolific writer, believes, "The scope of your subject matter will limit the frequency of publication, but that's all."

Motley states simply, "I think any good or 'marketable' book, whether by Negro or white, is bought on its merits."

"Thinking the same but going a little deeper, Williams declared, 'Publishers have a saturation point for certain kinds of books. This may be one of the reasons why Negro authors seem rare.'

"However, novels by Negroes as well as Jews may be having a vogue now. Hopefully, this

'vogue' may pass into a permanent condition without the labels 'Negro novel' or 'Jewish novel,'" explained Williams.

"Labels like these," he continued, "are designed to let the reader know that this or that particular work is somewhat outside the mainstream of American thought. On the other hand, it is increasingly true that some of America's best literature deals with the minority scene."

Motley and Williams offer different causes for the reason why Negroes do less reading than whites.

ECONOMIC ANGLE

"There are reasons for this," Williams replied, "mainly economic and social books cost a lot of money these days; it's rare to find a hardcover book for $2.50. Two dollars and fifty cents or $5.50 go a long way in a family where race has played a most important part in keeping the breadwinner from gainful employment."

"On the other hand," observed Williams, "Negroes are reading more now than they used to. Softcover books, an increasing middle-class group and subject matter directly related to Negroes are the cause for this, in my opinion."

Blaming it on schooling, Motley insisted, "Being, I-total (less educated), at a lower educational level, I'm quite sure that Negroes read much less than whites."

But, adds Motley, "I think Negroes would more quickly buy a book by a Negro, race identification; and the book would often have something special to say to them."

Williams isn't as sure as Motley whether a Negro would buy a book by a Negro author as quickly as whites.

"I just don't know," he maintained, "I'd say that between blacks and whites, the awareness of a certain book is equal, provided purchasing power and interest are also equal."

"Both factors, however, depend upon how much a publisher is committed to advertising and publicizing a given work. Many Negro publications have good lines of communication and let their readers know immediately what is current and what is good. Since most Negroes read the white as well as the Negro press, the impact is twofold," Williams explained.

Just like every other white person, every other Negro feels he has a story to tell. Fortunately or unfortunately, few ever see print.

But each year, another Negro author quietly slips onto the literary scene or bursts upon it in a blaze of glory. After one book, some disappear while others remain to become a real part of the field of literature.

Clerics Say Equal Church Worship Lags

ST. LOUIS — (UPI) — The president of the Metropolitan Church Federation of Greater St. Louis, the Rev. Dr. W. Sherman Skinner, said in a panel discussion that a "long distance" separated a church's official position and the actual attitude of its members in relation to race relations.

Dr. Skinner said that there is a widespread belief that the implementation of civil rights has taken too long.

Dr. Skinner made his remarks as a member of a panel discussing race relations and the church.

Another member of the panel, the Rev. Amos Rye, II, of the Lane Tabernacle, Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, said that churches have been concerned with the problem of social justice but have gone along with popular opinion.

The Rev. Mr. Rye, a Negro, said that because the churches accepted the "status quo" they should not be absolved from blame in the slow emergence of civil rights for the Negro.

Malcolm X Denounces JFK On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy was bitterly denounced by Malcolm X, Black Muslim leader.

He made his denunciation to the press after discussing Black Muslim views on race and juvenile delinquency with Representative Edith Green, Oregon Democrat, who is chairman of the House education subcommittee.

"President Kennedy did not send troops to Alabama when dogs were biting black babies," Malcolm X said. "He waited three weeks until the situation exploded."

"He then sent troops after the Negroes demonstrated their ability to defend themselves," Malcolm X said.

Kennedy did not tell the Alabama editors that he talked with that Negroes ought to be treated right because it is the right thing to do.

"But instead, he said that if Negroes are not well treated the Muslims will become a threat," he declared. "He urged change not because it is right but because the world is watching this country. Kennedy is wrong because his motivation is wrong."

Malcolm X accused President Kennedy of attacking Islam, a religion, but "did not open his mouth in defense of Negroes."

"Kennedy is a member of the Catholic faith, which has always complained of discrimination at the hands of Protestants," he claimed.

"We Muslims don't want to mix with whites," Malcolm X said, and on that account the Black Muslims are labeled "extremists."

Asked if he had proposed any new civil rights legislation, he replied:

"As Muslims we have analyzed all such legislation and found that none has solved the racial problem, from the Emancipation Proclamation to the Supreme Court decision. It is all hypocrisy. Nothing has been solved."

N. Rhodesia, On Edge Of Freedom Declares War On Beer Halls

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia — (UPI) — Africans tell a story about a man who tried to tame a herd of buffalo but failed. Then he built a big dam and filled it with whisky.

The man herded the thirty buffalo to the dam. They began to drink and by the end of the day they were all drunk. The man rounded them up and put them in a kraal and that was the end of their freedom.

With this typically African parable, Northern Rhodesia's new African government has declared war on the nation's huge, rowdy beer halls.

The government has blamed the beer halls for the almost daily political clashes that often end in full-scale riots. It has indicated it may shut them down completely after Northern Rhodesia gets its independence.

Both Kenneth Kaunda, the non-drinking leader of the United National Independence Party (UNIP), and Harry Nkumbula, of the African National Congress (ANC), were studying a ban in neighboring Nyasaland against "chiperoni" beer and the shutdown of saloons there.

About two million gallons of the local brew, "chibuku," are sold in Northern Rhodesia every month. There are hundreds of bars scattered throughout the territory.

PAY CHECKS Kaunda and Nkumbula were worried. In the country's wealthy copper belt, where almost every day miners receive pay checks, clashes inevitably follow beer hall roistering.

Kaunda has appealed often to his followers to drink in moderation. He once said he didn't like the idea of "leading a bunch of drunkards to political freedom."

Other organizations climbed on the temperance bandwagon. The Christian Council ran a newspaper advertising campaign to warn against excessive drinking.

In the territory's legislative council, Sikota Wina, parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Local Government and Social Welfare and a UNIP member, told the assembly:

"I think the beer hall system is not only evil in that it deprives families of a lot of revenue they should be using for food, but it demoralizes the whole population. The earlier this system is got rid of the better."

Wina suggested an alternative system of small bars and cocktail lounges to replace the rowdy beer halls, which sometimes hold as many as 2,000 persons.

Another UNIP council member said: "We should bring about a system where people can drink in peace in small numbers rather than this degrading system of beer halls."

Despite the rivalry between rank and file members of the two parties that make up the African nationalist coalition government, their leaders clearly believe that they can cut down — if not stop — clashes by legislating against mass beer drinking.

SOCIETY Merry Go-Round

BY MARJORIE I. ULEN

CORONATION

Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, Lane Chapel CME church was the scene of the "Little Miss Debutante Contest," sponsored by the Board of Directors of the Gillespie kindergarten.

Little Miss Marva Baskerville was crowned "Little Miss Debutante of 1968." Her attendants were little Diana Beard, first alternate, and little Jacqueline Jones, second alternate. A short musical program preceded the coronation. Miss Barbie Lou Butler was soloist and Miss Earline Jacobs played the piano.

A party for the contestants, sponsors and parents was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Wednesday afternoon. The contestants received a treasure chest of gifts. Pictures were made of the group.

DORCAS CIRCLE

Dorcas Circle of the Morning Star Baptist church Missionary society sponsored a Junior Dorcas contest, Sunday afternoon at the church. Devotion was given by Mrs. Lucile Robinson, with greetings by Mrs. Lena Reid and Mrs. Elizabeth Ballard responding. Mrs. Louise Croom introduced the speaker.

The address was given by Mrs. Cottrell Thomas of Lane Chapel church, on the subject, "Struggle to Keep our Hope."

Music was furnished by the Ladies Chorus. Little Miss Doris Ann Abbott was crowned "Little Miss Dorcas." Sharon Harrell and Arlene Newhouse were attendants. Rev. J. H. Mathis is pastor of the church.

TRAVELERS

Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Ledford, Mrs. Elizabeth Ballard, Miss Sandra Sims and Lawrence Rodgers left for Los Angeles Thursday morning.

Rev. and Mrs. Jim B. Fly, granddaughter Carolyn Fly and Miss Echidress Warren left for Ann Arbor, Mich.

Miss Annette Hughes of Columbus, Tenn., was house guest of the Vances last week-end. Miss Hughes is a student at Lane College and has just returned from an extensive trip as a member of the glee club.

Mesdames Tuggle and Vance had a few young ladies and men on the Vance lawn to see Miss Hughes. She attended First Baptist church and spent Mother's Day with the Vances and the Brodnaxes.

Rev. and Mrs. Vance, Mrs. Estelle Hornbeak and Houston Vance, journeyed to Elkton, Tenn., for a visit with relatives and friends in and around Pulaski and Elkton, the childhood home of the Vances.

Mrs. Winifred Rogers has been on the sick list for a few days, and everyone is hoping that she will be in good health very soon.

Suzanne Ford To Wed June 9

Plans for a June 9 wedding are being made by Miss Suzanne Ford and Herman Bond.

SUZANNE FORD

The wedding will take place at Berean Baptist Church in Jackson, Tenn., announces the bride-elect's mother.

Miss Ford is the daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Ford and the late A. C. Ford of Jackson. She is a graduate of Lane College where she was a member of the band, track team, modern dance group, inter-mural sports, F.T.A. and the S.N.E.A. Her Greek affiliation is with Delta Sigma Theta sorority. Miss Ford is presently employed as a teacher at the E. A. Harold School in Memphis.

Bond is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Bond of Brownsville, Tenn. He attended Tennessee A&I State university and is now affiliated with Stephenson and Shaw Funeral Home in Jackson.

Learning To Swim May Lengthen Your Life Too

More than 15,000 youngsters and adults will converge upon Memphis City pools beginning June 17 as they begin free swimming in the Red Cross-Memphis Park Commission's annual learn-to-swim program.

Application blanks are still available at any school principal's office in Memphis or Shelby County Red Cross Chapter, 1400 Central, said James Thurston, Chairman, Red Cross Water Safety Committee.

These classes are not only for school students but for adults as well. Mr. Thurston emphasized. Adults may register in day classes or all-adult beginner evening classes to be held from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Fairgrounds, and from 6 to 7 p.m. at the Tom Lee and Orange Mound pools. Minimum age at time of enrollment is seven years.

VACANCIES EXIST

Although classes at the Gaisman pool are filled, there are still vacancies at the other 7 city pools, reports the Red Cross. Registration ends June 14.

All that is necessary for enrollment is to complete an application form and mail it to the Red Cross Chapter, 1400 Central. The registrant will be notified of time, date, and pool he has been assigned to.

Classes are taught Monday, Tuesday, and Friday by qualified swimming instructors assisted by water safety aides. Each class is one hour long and lasts for two weeks. Except for the adult evening class, all classes are in an 8 to 12 period of the morning.

Commenting on the effectiveness of the learn-to-swim program, Capt. C. W. Howard of the Memphis Fire Department said, "My son is here today because we enrolled him in the learn-to-swim classes." Recently, Capt. Howard and his seven year old son, Robert, had gone fishing at Lake Norfolk. Capt. Howard said he was fishing off one side of the pier and Robert the other side when he heard a splash.

"I turned around, and Robert wasn't there," said Capt. Howard. "But when I got to the other side of the pier there he was treading water. If he had not taken swimming lessons we would probably have lost him in that thirty feet of water."

Billy B. Springer, Red Cross Safety Director, said parents should especially be interested in this program since statistics show that most drownings occur among young children.

Mobutu In 2nd Phase Of U.S. Army Base Tour

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Maj. Joseph Mobutu, commander of the Congolese Army, left here for another phase of his tour of U. S. military facilities.

Mobutu and Pentagon officers declined to comment on details of their discussions on how best the U. S. can help in retraining the Congolese Army.

But G. Mennen Williams, Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs, told United Press International, "There is no question but that both the Congo and the United States are interested in speedy implementation of training and organization of the Congo National Army."

State Department officials said they still held hope that a retraining program could be worked out with United Nations coordination, or at least U. N. sanction.

At Fort Bragg, North Carolina Mobutu was met by representatives of the special warfare center.

A SWEET SIXTEEN PARTY was given for Miss Claudine Cooper by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cooper, 858 Almo St., recently, at Top Hat & Tails club. Among guests attending were: Charles Braham, Lucy Yates, Cotes Woods, Joyce Cochran, Phillip Duncan, Sylvia Coleman, Robert Davis, Naomi Nevels, Kenneth Porter, Naomi Reid, Robert Davidson, Earline Reed, Eddie Walsh, Dale Stevenson, Lawrence Griffin, Evelyn Hill, Uriah McGhee, Dorothy James, James Carpenter, Frankie Matthews, Ernest Battles, Janice Hille, Joe Duckett, Loretta Shores, Bill

Reject Bid To Integrate In N.J.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J. (UPI) — John H. Perry, Negro president of the Englewood Board of Education announced the board will take no action to integrate the city's elementary schools before September.

Some 100 persons, most of them Negroes, attended the meeting. Following Raubinger's decision in the Orange case, Englewood Negroes had demanded their school board conform with the precedent set by the decision.

Perry said: "The grievances relating to the Englewood schools were heard in separate action. Briefs are now being prepared, and

JACK'S ADDRESS

On Saturday, May 18, your scribe, along with husband, Jack, had the pleasure of witnessing the address of President John F. Kennedy in Nashville, Tenn., as he spoke commemorating the founding of Vanderbilt University. He also signaled the beginning of the construction of Cordell Hull Dam.

On the ninetieth anniversary of this institution, the president centered his address around the subject "The Responsibilities of the Educated Man." The three responsibilities he based his address on were: (1) The pursuit of learning; (2) using talents to serve the nation; and (3) obeying law without force. The ovation of more than 30,000 spectators at Vanderbilt stadium was great.

The busy Saturday ended with your scribe getting back to Jackson in time to attend the Alumni meeting and banquet held at Lane college. Conducting the business session was the national president, Dr. James Utley of St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Edna White, local president, served as mistress of ceremonies at the banquet. The classes of '23, '33, '43, '53, '63 were represented with after-dinner association.

Presence of Mr. Gallot, Chicago, class of 1907, welcomed. Other out-of-town alumni at the meeting were Mrs. Carrie White Ules, Indianapolis, sister of T. R. Collier, and Rev. Beasley of Champron, D. C.

PROUD, H. Burnett, class of many, the guest speaker, were honorary degree of Doctorate given by the college.

Lane College and the CME church served as pastor of the service. He dedicated the new building to the college. He dedicated the new building to the college.

White of Philadelphia. She was visiting her sister, Mrs. L. Rogers Bradley who resides on Middleton st.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davis were host and hostess at a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Mosby on Saturday, May 18, in the reception room of First Baptist Church.

The room was beautiful with a color scheme of pink and green. Candelabra, ivy, and fern complimented the beautiful table where guests were served as they passed to wish happiness to the couple who were married recently in the Davis home. Hostesses for the occasion were Misses Connie and Dale Lee, Delores Woods, Hazelle and Mozelle Longstreet, Wilma Shaw, and Sallie Chatman. Miss Theresa Womack rendered soft music during the reception. Directing was Mrs. Doris Price assisted by Mesdames Helen Porter, Louise Ward, and Addie Ingram. The gifts received by the couple were gorgeous.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary H. Pyles of Holyoke, Mass., the bride's sister, Mrs. Geraldine Pyles Turner and her daughter, Gwen, of Holyoke.

Mrs. Mosby, nee Dorothy Pyles, received her degree from Lane college on Monday. They will make their home in Memphis, where Mr. Mosby is employed by the Memphis City School system.

WITH THE YOUNGER SET
A Sweet Sixteen Party was the order of the weekend with the younger set when Mrs. Robert L. Gibbs entertained her daughter, Jackie, on her sixteenth birthday. The outdoor affair was held Saturday night on their lawn on Orchard st.

Enjoying the fete were Ira Golden, Beverly and Deborah Bledsoe, Billy Bledsoe, Brenda and Patricia Robinson, Margaret Savage, Eddie Shaw, Dave Neal, Johnnie B. Seales, Brenda Monroe, Ernest Walker, Madeline Walker, Paul Bishop, Sonja Trice, Robert and Diane Smith, Phyllis Copeland, Lorraine K. Bell, Frank and Carl Carver, Louis Pettis, Kapel Kirkendoll, Janice Neilson, Anona Savage, and Stewart Griffin.

"Twas a beautiful night, just before the cool spell came on, and the teen-agers really had a wonderful time. Many beautiful surprises were received by the honoree who said that it feels swell to be "sweet sixteen."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Gibbs, Jackie is completing her junior year at Merry High.

YWCA Staffers Return From Miami Meeting

Six members of the YWCA volunteer and staff of the Memphis Association attended the National YWCA Conference in the Southern Region held in Miami, Fla., recently, according to Mrs. Addie G. Owen, branch director.

Miss Mary Frances Lacey, executive director of the delegation which left here May 9 for the four-day meeting which was attended by representatives of community and student associations throughout the 13-state area of the Southern Region. Others representing the local YWCA are: Miss Rosa A. Robinson, chairman committee on administration; Mrs. Stanley Ish, board member; Miss Louise Weeks, committee on administration member, and Mrs. M. O. Bennett, member national board of national YWCA.

The conference was one of four being conducted by the YWCA of the U.S.A. in different sections of the country this spring. Delegates to these meetings discussed and evaluated YWCA program, and review special areas of concern to women and girls with emphasis on the needs of youth in today's times. They also discussed policy and plans for future program in preparation for legislative process at the association's 23rd Triennial National Convention to be held next spring in Cleveland, Ohio.

Centered around the theme "We All Need Each Other," the conference will get under way Thursday, May 9, with delegates registering from the YWCAs of North and South Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas, which comprise the Southern Region of the National Association.

Speakers at the conference included four top officers of the national organization. They are Mrs. Archie D. Marvel, president of the YWCA of the U.S.A., headquarters, 600 Lexington ave., New York City; Mrs. John F. Welborn, Jr., of Greenville, S. C., vice-president-at-large.

Also making two important addresses will be Dr. Arthur W. Combs, professor of education and psychology in the College of Education at the University of Florida, Gainesville, Florida.

Throughout the four-day session, which will be held in the Barcelona Hotel in Miami Beach, members attended day and evening general meetings and participate in workshops, panel discussions and special interest groups pertaining to strengthening program in the YWCA for meeting the needs and interests of women and girls.

LEE LEMOYNE SPEAKER

It was homecoming for Bob Lee when the Southern University Athletic Director and head football coach returned to Memphis last Friday to serve as guest speaker at the Awards Banquet of LeMoyné College. Lee is a LeMoyné graduate and played quarterback for the Magicians under the tutelage of the great Jack Atkins in the early 1930's.

In nearly 20 years as coach at Southern, the affable Memphis has coached three major sports, an extraordinary feat. Lee compiled a 206-won, and 46-lost record in the 14 years at the baseball helm. In ten of those years the Jaguar Cats nailed down championships. Lee was named NAIA coach of the year in 1957.

As head cage coach, Lee's charges copped five Southwest conference titles in 10 years, and an impressive 119-52 career mark. "Roundhead," as he is affectionately known from his playing days, retired from basketball and baseball to concentrate on coaching football. Lee took over as head grid coach at Southern in 1952 after the death of A. W. "Ace" Mumford. Lee described his first year record as head football coach as just mediocre; however, he was too modest to mention that one of those victories was over Jackson State college, ebony National Champions.

'PRODEST MOMENT'

Many of Lee's teammates were present at the banquet to give the occasion a bit of nostalgia. Heading that list was LeMoyné's first all-American Haywood Thornton. Others were William "Bull" Owens, Rev. Bob Mason, Cecil Goodloe and Lonnie Briscoe. Lee, noticeably delighted to have the opportunity to return to his alma mater, called it "Bob Lee's Proudest Moment." His speech, though typical for athletic banquets, was well-received by the athletes and guests.

SPLIT ON VIEWS

It took a beautiful trophy presented by LeMoyné Club to perk up LeMoyné cage coach Jerry Johnson. In an earlier speech, Johnson had indicated the seriousness of the recruiting problem at LeMoyné and how hard it was to compete against opponents who do full time recruiting. Alumni president Ann Hall praised Johnson for the fine job he has done at LeMoyné and that she was personally raising three sons that might be able to help the Magicians' cause in the future.

President Hollis Price shedded a little light on what appeared to be a difference in opinions with Johnson when he gave his remarks. The jovial LeMoyné prexy stated, he wasn't against recruiting but that close scrutiny should be utilized in recruiting so that the player can achieve academically as well as athletically.

He concluded by saying that to use a boy solely because of his athletic ability was exploitation, and LeMoyné being a Christian institution couldn't do this.

Some disagreement of their recruiting program apparently stemmed from the recent withdrawal of freshman star Richard Dumas of Kansas City, Kan. Dumas and two other persons had a brush with the law last week.

MACK, CURRIN, HONORED
Monroe Currin, eighth in the nation in scoring last season with a 28.0 average, and Milton Mack who competes in the quartermile during the track season, also received trophies during the awards presentations from the Alumni Association. Mack, who has run a 47.0 440 competes in Sioux City, North Dakota this weekend.

LeMoyné "L's" were presented to 23 athletes for participation in basketball, track and cross country.

HOLDING A TROPHY

Holding a trophy recently awarded him by the Memphis chapter of the Tennessee State University Alumni Association "For Outstanding Leadership in Athletics" is John B. McLendon, who received the award on May 1. McLendon is going to Kentucky State College at Frankfort.

McClendon Leaves TSU For Kentucky State

NASHVILLE — John B. McLendon, Tennessee State University's coordinator of health, physical education and athletics since last September, resigned to return to college basketball coaching.

University President Dr. W. S. Davis accepted McLendon's resignation today saying, "I accept your resignation with mixed emotions... there is a sense of deep regret of severing a professional and personal relationship that has been characterized with cordiality, productivity, and friendliness."

"I sympathize with you in your desire to return to active coaching with administrative and teaching responsibilities," McLendon, who guided Tennessee State cage crews to three consecutive NAIA national championships, left the University in 1959 to coach the Cleveland Pipers in the NIBL League and coached Cleveland's ABL professional basketball team before returning to Tennessee in 1962.

In his letter to Dr. Davis, McLendon said, "It is with some feelings of regret that I notify you of my resignation as of May 31, 1963 from my

Dr. Davis Announces Promotions At State

NASHVILLE — Eight new terminal degree professors were appointed to Tennessee State University's faculty and two professors were elevated to deanships by Dr. W. S. Davis, university president.

The promotions and appointments take effect September 1 with the 1963-64 school year, headed by Dr. William N. Jackson who was named dean of faculty. The former Science Education department head becomes the second dean of faculty in the University's 50-year history.

Dr. Jackson, who assisted Dr. Carl M. Hill before the latter became president of Kentucky State College, served on the three-man committee since December 1, 1962 conducting the office of dean of faculty. At the same time, President Davis announced that Dr. Thomas E. Poag, head of the Department of Speech and Drama, will become dean of the School of Arts and Sciences; and Dr. Granville M. Sawyer, director of Public Relations and Alumni Affairs, was tabbed for the Director of Institutional Research starting with the fall quarter.

EIGHT APPOINTED

The eight terminal degree faculty members appointed to the University faculty for the coming school year are Wendolyn Bell, modern foreign languages; Beatrice Boose, psychology; Kenneth F. Jerkins, science education; Rother Johnson, biology; Mabel Anderson, child development; H. Leon Prather, social science; Wilma Deb. Scarlette, biology; and Archie L. Buffkins, music.

This brings Tennessee State's complement to 74 fulltime and 16 part-time Ph.D.'s to a total of 90. This is one-third of the total teaching force.

GOLFING WITH LIL

Aubrey Turner, 1963 president of the Sam Qualls Golf club, said plans are completed for the fourth annual Sam Qualls Invitational Tournament to be held at Fuller Park Golf course on June 15-16.

The 36 holes medal play on Saturday and Sunday will include nine flights — four for men, two for women, two for juniors, and one for seniors. Three trophies will be awarded in each flight. A golf bag will be presented to the person holding the lucky ticket. The club's banquet will be held on Saturday night following the first 18 holes.

Non-golfers who wish to purchase tickets for the affair should contact Turner at Whitehall 6-1080, the secretary, Mrs. Florence M. Scott or the tournament director, Dollar Sanders.

NIGERIAN NOVELIST AT BOSTON UNIVERSITY

Chinua Achebe (right), of Lagos, Nigeria, discusses his first novel "Things Fall Apart," with Dr. Adelaide Hill, research associate at Boston University's African Studies Program, as Harry Langworthy of Schenectady, N. Y., a program student, looks on. Achebe, in the United States on a UNESCO fellowship, gave a lecture on the novel in West Africa during his two-day visit at Boston University. Achebe is also Director of External Broadcasting of the Nigerian Broadcasting Corporation.

Geeler Graduate Completes Basic

SHEPPARD AFB, Tex. Airman Third Class Edward E. Williams of Memphis, is being reassigned to Keesler AFB, Miss., following his graduation from the United States Air Force technical training course for accounting specialists here.
